

Throat Coughs

PETER RUTH!

The Wife Writes a Letter About Her Husband

He Committed Suicide in this City on July 8, 1896.

DEATH OF PAUL EDGAR NEWCOMER.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, April 29. City Marshal, Albuquerque, N. M.

Dear Sir:—I have heard quite recently that a man by the name of Peter Ruth, who was my husband, died suddenly in your city on the 8th of last July. If you would please send me particulars as to the cause of his death and what you know of him before his death, and if he had any papers or anything of value on him. I have had very little news from him for two years. The last letter I received was two years ago. The last mail since he left me, and my four-month-old son, was written to him. Please answer me as soon as you can and oblige.

Yours respectfully,
LIZZIE RUTH.

The above letter was received this morning by Chas. Marshal Kornoff and referred to a man, Peter Ruth by name, who died by taking morphine at his room, No. 12, at the Bachman Building on First street, on July 8, 1896. He arrived in this city from Dallas, where he had worked as a blacksmith for the Crescent Iron company, and after securing a room at the above lodging house, he started out on a spree. On the afternoon of July 8, he returned to his room, after an all-night's spree, and an hour afterward groans were heard which attracted the attention of Mrs. Bachelt, who thought something was wrong and so notified the officers. When they arrived, with Dr. Hope, they discovered that the man had taken poison, and although they used every means to restore him to consciousness, he died. Marshal Kornoff took possession of his effects, including some letters and tax receipts, the latter showing that he had some property in Wichita Falls, Texas. There was a letter also from his brother, Chas. Ruth, of New Mexico county, Texas, asking him (Peter) to come home and re-unite himself with the wife he had separated from two years before. After Marshal Kornoff had exhausted all known efforts to find the relatives of the suicide, the remains were burned in Fairview cemetery by Undertaker Montfort, and the papers and letters turned over to the marshal to Johnson & Finkle, attorneys.

LITTLE PAUL DEAD.
Last night, at 10:30 o'clock, Paul Edgar Newcomer, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Newcomer, died from pneumonia after a brief illness; aged 14 months and 10 days.

The pretty little boy, the pride of parents and mamma, was apparently pale and healthy, except a slight cold, Thursday, and played in and around the house. Yesterday morning his sickness assumed a serious aspect, and a physician was called. The disease, however, had fastened its clutches, and the little cherub closed his eyes in death.

THE CITIZEN extends its sympathy to the bereaved parents.

The funeral service will be held tomorrow afternoon at the residence, 312 east Coal avenue, Rev. Bennett, of St. John's, officiating, and burial in Fairview, under the direction of Undertaker Strong.

A Voluminous Prescription.
Editor Morrison, of Worthington, Ind., Sun, writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for constipation and sick headache, and as a general tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Stebbins, 2025 Cottage Grove avenue, Indianapolis, Indiana, says: "I have a sore digitized foot, had a backache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Price, 50 cents and $1. Get a bottle at a drug store. At wholesale by J. H. O'Reilly & Co., Albuquerque, N. M."

DOINGS OF ROCK BEER.
The Foaming Beverage Made Some of Our Citizens Act Quarer.

Last Saturday, April 24th, was Rock beer day in this city, and many of those looked upon and tasted the foaming beverage will long remember the day and the headache it caused the following morning.

He was at the Las Vegas, a noted resort, with which he was sufficiently familiar, and reports himself a man. He states that he will be repaid by the reports Fresh White Trunks, educating as steamer babies.

Mattie, attorney at law and wife of Alvin, who has been here, and writes a unique article on receiving a sun tan prescription. Translating is something, and advises all when a subscriber does not want to be seen at the post office.

He, too, was down Santa Fe, looking for rests, has returned to a conversation with his wife this morning, and on arriving found one of the south end society boys peacefully asleep in the sand. He had taken off his coat, vest, pantaloons, shoes and socks, carefully rolled them up in a bundle and gone to bed in the sand in the middle of the street. The officer awoke him and asked him what he was doing. He replied that he thought he was in bed at home. The officer helped him to put on his clothes, and showed him the right direction to his home.

NEW MEXICO NOTES.

Fifty converts joined the Christian church at Roswell recently, at a protracted meeting.

Judge Henry L. Waldo and daughters, Misses Manie and Helen, are in Washington on a visit.

The Arcade saloon, a noted resort at Santa Fe for many years, will be closed for lack of business.

Within the next sixty days, over $50,000 will be paid out at Tularosa and La Luz for cattle alone.

The government's custodians of the weather predict plenty of water in the Rio Grande this year.

A petition is being circulated in Hillsboro, endorsing Capt. Thomas Branigan for the postmastership.

A magic lantern fair who shows pictures of Moses in the bulrushes. Washington crossing the Alps, Tom Catron discovering New Mexico, and a lot more relics of antiquity, left Eddy in a delirium of rage because a licensee was refused him, and says he will give that town a dissolved optic wherever he may wander.

City Treasurer Sam G. Cartwright at Santa Fe has prepared his bonds in the sum of $10,000 as city treasurer, with H. B. Cartwright, J. H. Blain, Sol Spiegelberg and Marcus Koldt as sureties; also as treasurer of the school board with H. B. Cartwright, S. Spitz and J. G. Schumann as sureties.

The bureau of immigration has now at press with the New Mexican Printing company, a pamphlet edition of 50,000 copies of a new work treating of the best sugar industry, horticulture and mining in the territory of New Mexico.

T. D. Burns reports the loss of live stock on the northern New Mexico range the past winter was less than for several seasons and the prospects for a luxuriant growth of grass this summer was never better.

During the past ten days, the Southern Pacific has delivered to the Santa Fe at Deming 2,515 head of cattle for shipment to Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska. Nearly all of these cattle came from Arizona.

It begins to look as if the Santa Fe company was about ready to build a branch road into the Red River mining district upon an old survey made in 1893 from Maxwell City to Taos.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Raton water works company will be held at the office of the company in that place on Thursday, May 20.

The old board of Custer town trustees held their final meeting and the new board re-elected S. Golding chairman for the ensuing year.

Contractor R. D. Hall has a large force of men at work re-locating the road bed on the Silver City branch between White-water and Hudson.

Martin Lehman, of Los Cruces, has attacked all the effects of sub contractors on the Selon canal, for supplies furnished them.

If they don't re-open the Palace hotel at Santa Fe pronto, the territorial capital will surely be removed at an early date.

Jack Brennan, of Madrid, has gone to work at the turquoise mine, where Mrs. Brennan goes in a few days to join him.

Judge A. L. Morrison will return to Santa Fe this week. He is assured of a good federal office by the president.

A new town is to be started this summer about five miles from Red River City, and will be called Franklin.

It is estimated that not less than one thousand shade trees have been set out in denim during this spring.

GREECE'S GLORY GONE!

The Greeks are Degenerate Sons of Noble Sires.

Themistocles! Thy People are Peons of Pampered Luxury!

Phidias! The Fleet Limbs of Helas Youth Hath Turned to Mud!

Great is Allah!

London, April 27.—A special from Constantinople says a telegram has been received from Edhem Pasha, Turkish minister of foreign affairs, announcing that a division of his army is on its way to Asia Minor, a part of Thessaly, and another division en route to Trithala.

According to a special received this afternoon from Constantinople, the Turkish fleet has started for Salonicæ, where a naval battle between the Greeks and Turks is imminent. It is further reported that four Roman ships of the fleet will within view of the entrance of the Bosphorus.

Special telegrams received during the afternoon from Salonicæ say that the greatest excitement prevails there over a report that five Greek iron-clads, thirteen smaller Greek warships and torpedo boats, accompanied by two Greek transports, have been sighted sixty miles from that port. The Turkish authorities say that the dispatch further announces, as the enthusiasm being noteworthy. President McKinley's special journal says that the arrival of the fleet is the signal for the annual festival of patriotic cheering from 50,000 people.

The president and other guests alighted from the carriages at the monument and took the places assigned them in readiness for the oratorical and musical ceremonies at 10:30 o'clock.

The Son of Neptune, a small portion of the monument at the tomb, is the signal for the arrival of the fleet.

The arrival of the fleet is the signal for the annual festival of patriotic cheering from 50,000 people.

The president and other guests alighted from the carriages at the monument and took the places assigned them in readiness for the oratorical and musical ceremonies at 10:30 o'clock.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the ceremonies. Many people joined in "Our Father" which concluded the bishop's prayer.

Another mighty cheer arose as President McKinley moved to the railing of the speaker's stand, followed by others who were to participate in the ceremony.

The president, however, stood with his hands behind his back, while waiting for the ceremonies to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart and ex-President Cleveland had photographs taken in a group.

The exercises commenced with the singing of the national anthems. Silence fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked a blessing on the